SUMMARY OF THE REASONS FOR DECISION:

The publication entitled Call Girl is classified as:
Objectionable except if the availability of the publication is restricted to persons who have attained the age of 18 years.

The publication is a DVD (digital versatile disc) that includes a feature entitled Call Girl that has a total running time of 103 min 29 sec. The video version feature of Call Girl, with a running time of 103 min 25 sec, has been classified previously by the Office of Film and Literature Classification (OFLC No. 846). In this case the publication was classified objectionable except if the availability of the publication is restricted to persons who have attained the age of 18 years and consigned the descriptive note "Contains explicit sex scenes". This decision was registered on 11 July 2000. The DVD feature appears to be identical to the fore-mentioned video feature (with the difference in running times apparently accounted for by the different running speeds of the different mediums).

A DVD allows the viewer to enlarge scenes and repeatedly play them at slow speed. This can have the effect of magnifying the impact of selected scenes. The high level of explicit depictions of sex in this publication is likely to have impact on the viewer in this medium. When the DVD player is attached to a PC the viewer has the opportunity to download images, including those that have been enlarged. These images can be printed off or saved as a computer image file that can be easily distributed electronically, including on the Internet. In this instance the impact of the different medium does not affect the original classification.

The DVD also contains other moving components that contain material of the same degree and manner as the feature and do not alter the classification previously given.
